DETAILED ACTION

Restriction

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions, which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 50-62, drawn to a composition comprising at least one analgesic drug in combination with at least one non-toxic NMDA receptor antagonist

Group II, claim(s) 63-66, drawn to a composition comprising at least one opioid analgesic and dextromethorphan, where in the composition is substantially free of opioid antagonist

Group I, claim(s) 67-76, drawn to a composition consisting essentially of at least one analgesic drug and at least one non-toxic NMDA receptor antagonist

The inventions listed as Groups I, II and III do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features.

An international application should relate to only one invention or, if there is more than one invention, the inclusion of those inventions in one international application

Art Unit: 1612

Is only permitted if all inventions are so linked as to form a single general inventive concept (PCT Rule 13.1). With respect to a group of inventions claimed in an international application, unity of invention exists only when there is a technical relationship among the claimed inventions involving one or more of the same or corresponding special technical features.

The expression "special technical feature" is defined in PCT Rule 13.2 as meaning those technical features that define a contribution which each of the inventions, considered as a whole, makes over the prior art. The determination is made on the contents of the claims as interpreted in light of the description and drawings (if any). Whether or not any particular feature makes a "contribution" over the prior art and therefore constitutes a "special technical feature" should be considered with respect to novelty and inventive step.

The common technical feature in all groups is a combination of at least one analgesic drug and at least one non-toxic NMDA receptor antagonist. This element cannot be a special technical feature under PCT Rule 13.2 because the element is shown in the prior art.

In this case, Caruso (US Patent No. 6,277, 398) discloses analgesic compositions comprising capsaicin (an analgesic) and dextromethorphan (an NMDA receptor antagonist). As a result no technical feature exists among the different groups because the inventions of Groups I, II and III fail to make a contribution over the prior art with respect to novelty and inventive step. In conclusion, there is a lack of unity of inventions and therefore restriction for examination purposed as indicated is proper.

Species Election

Claims 50-76 are generic to the following disclosed patentably distinct species:

1. Analgesic drug(s), enumerated in claims 51, 53, 54, 63, 68, 70
2. NMDA receptor antagonist (s) 51, 55, 64, 68, 70

The species are independent or distinct because as disclosed the different species have mutually exclusive characteristics for each identified species. In addition, these species are not obvious variants of each other based on the current record.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable.

Specifically, if Applicant elects the invention of Group I, II or III Applicant is required to elect a specific analgesic drug or a specific combination of analgesic drugs AND elect a specific NMDA receptor antagonist or a specific combination of NMDA receptors.

There is an examination and search burden for these patentably distinct species due to their mutually exclusive characteristics. The species require a different field of search (e.g., searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries); and/or the prior art applicable to one species would not likely be applicable to another species; and/or the species are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

The election of the species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the election of species requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected species.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the species unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other species.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141.
